

Outline in Tehran

The 300-seat Talar Honar theatre is an antique building located in the heart of Tehran, the capital of the Islamic Republic of Iran. The theatre is used for multipurpose applications, such as theatre, drama, live music and - being equipped with 5.1 Dolby equipment and a 35mm. cinema projector - also for screening movies. The theatre is owned by the Municipality of Tehran and its refurbishment was recently completed including acoustic treatment and wall covering, as well as installation of a new sound reinforcement system and lighting fixtures.

The sound equipment was provided by the Italian manufacturer Outline, and includes a three-channel main system made up of Integra A, a two-way 400W AES loudspeaker system for bi-amping, and a pair of Minisub Plus sub-woofers, fitted with a single 18-inch woofer. The system is tri-amped, through a pair of Genius 26 DSP loudspeaker management processors, while the surround speakers are eight Outline Omnia Plus full-range two-way systems. All the loudspeakers are powered by Outline PWM amplifiers, which range from the four-channel D4-2K for the surround cabinets to the two-channel T4,5 for the main and sub systems.

The Talar Honar Theatre is the second theatre fitted with Outline equipment in the last year in Tehran, and others are due to be completed shortly.
